

Demonstrated Interest Checklist

Use this checklist to come up with ideas on how to demonstrate interest to colleges. You don't have to do every item on the list, but it's good to do a few and at least one in each category so that colleges know you're actually interested! If you can't swing an in person visit, make sure to do more further down the list.

HIGH EFFORT	NOTES:
<input type="checkbox"/> Visit the college and take an official tour
<input type="checkbox"/> Visit the college and take part in an admissions event
<input type="checkbox"/> Request to speak with a professor or sit in on a class
MEDIUM EFFORT	NOTES:
<input type="checkbox"/> Attend a virtual information session hosted by the admissions office
<input type="checkbox"/> Complete an interview or meeting with a local graduate
<input type="checkbox"/> Talk to a rep at a local college fair
<input type="checkbox"/> Call the admissions office with specific questions
<input type="checkbox"/> Interact with the student who is manning the chat feature on the website.
<input type="checkbox"/> Take a virtual tour
LOW EFFORT	NOTES:
<input type="checkbox"/> Open emails promptly (yes, some colleges can tell)
<input type="checkbox"/> Email your rep with specific questions or a follow up
<input type="checkbox"/> Look at the college website regularly
<input type="checkbox"/> Submit the application before the deadline
